

The Boston Globe

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 16, 2008

SHOPPING TIP OF THE DAY

Pants, minus the fancy

Whether you're working cattle or working the club, you need the right pants. Just ask Sarah Calhoun. She learned the hard way on a farm in Canada when her 4-year-old self got a hole in her pants and started to cry. Years later she started Red Ants Pants, a Montana company that turns out workwear for women. Her cotton canvas chocolate-brown pants come in straight or boot leg, have a contoured waistband, sit below the navel, are reinforced, and come in a curvy or straight cut (men can wear the latter). Now, ready to cut that firewood? $119. redantspants.com [JW]

SIDEKICK SUBMISSIONS SEND EVENT INFORMATION TO MEREDITH GOLDSTEIN (MGOLDSTEIN@GLOBE.COM) AND JUNE WULFF (JWULFF@GLOBE.COM).